Quality assurance process

Adult victims of IPV (or family violence in Romanian legislation) or rape or sexual harassment or sexual assault have to file an official complaint with the police or the prosecutor's office; once a complaint is filed, a judicial investigation begins (police and prosecutor's office); the case is assigned a number and managed through the police and prosecutor's office case management software; the inquire ends with a prosecutor's evaluation of evidence upon which the case is either sent to trial or dismissed; if sent to trial then the file receives a court registration number that can be tracked throughout the system; both court case management software and prosecutor's case management software (versions of ECRIS) use a series of cross validation procedures where some fields are mandatory; information is compared with other fields and in case it does not add up, the software elicits an error alert;
