

Código de ética

The Code of conduct of the national broadcasting company (RTP) states that RTP's social commitment reflects itself in the promotion of equal opportunities for all employees and in the prohibition of any discrimination in employment, working conditions, career prospects, pay levels. RTP promotes the reconciliation of work and personal and family life of employees and protects maternity and paternity. It is therefore expected to uphold these principles.

Weblinks

Website

Aims and objectives

- To have and uphold ethical principles, values and behavioural norms for managers, administrators and employees working for the public broadcasting company including on ensuring equal opportunities

Results and impact

Not evaluated

Creator/owner/responsible institution

RTP - Rádio e Televisão de Portugal

Stakeholder, Firstname: Ana

Stakeholder, Family name: Fischer

Additional information

Subtype: Codes of conduct which safeguard gender equality

Nuts code: PT

Metadata

ONGOING: Ne

TYPE: Code of conduct

COVERAGE: National

TARGET GROUP: Media company managers, Media professionals

KEYWORDS: radio, television, broadcasting, women's participation, balanced participation, codes of conduct, self-regulation tools