

Perception of Gender Equality and Employment Opportunities in Croatian Society. The Perspective of Unemployed Women

The paper presents the results of the 2007 survey on 1017 unemployed women. The results show that the practice of gender discrimination of women during hiring and later employment persists, thus hindering many unemployed women the possibility of a truly equal access to employment, and without resolving their already threatened existential conditions. The paper presents some of the research results that show certain elements of gender discrimination at the labour market in Croatia, analysing some important issues of gender equality and equal employment opportunities of unemployed women in Croatia.

Format: pdf-file

Weblinks

Website

Metadata

TYPE: Other

CREATOR/AUTHOR: Nikodem, Krunoslav; Galić, Branka

PUBLISHER: Zagreb: Croatian Journal of Social Policy

IDENTIFIER: 10.3935/rsp.v16i3.855

RIGHTS: Copyrighted

LANGUAGE: Croatian

COVERAGE: Croatia

SECTOR: Employment

FORMAT: Journal

KEYWORDS: sex discrimination - direct, sex discrimination - indirect