

Genders' profile in private and public life in the Mass Media of Cyprus VS Gender mainstreaming in EU

The paper compares the gendered profiles in the Cypriot Mass Media with the perceptions of youth. It supports the argument that TV shapes stereotypes as socialization models. It reinforces the debate about the role of informal curriculum on citizenship education.

Key information on EU or National policies/legislation on women's' representation on the Media:

EU gender mainstreaming indicators not promoted by mass media

Key information on trends and challenges on women and the media:

Coherence between the gender stereotypes in students' perceptions and those promoted by the mass media in public life

Key stakeholders mentioned:

TV broadcasting,

Related title/resource:

Weblinks

Website

Source

Is Part Of: L. Neophytou (ed.), Proceedings from the International Conference Citizenship Multiculturalism Cosmopolitanism, pp. 361–376).

Metadata

TYPE: Publication

CREATOR/AUTHOR: Koutselini, Mary; Agathaggelou, Sophia; Savva, S.

CONTRIBUTOR: Nicosia: POLI.S Citizenship Association

IDENTIFIER: ISBN: 9963944213, 9789963944217

LANGUAGE: English

COVERAGE: Cyprus

KEYWORDS: gender-sensitive media, representation, gender stereotypes