

A conciliação trabalho-família como uma dimensão fundamental da qualidade de vida do trabalho

Particularly geared towards graduate and post-graduate students dealing with management, human resource management and personnel management, this resource provides an overview of the main obstacles to work-family life reconciliation. It stresses the need for incorporating gender mainstreaming in strategic human resource policies and practices, as well as in work organization practices, formal and informal daily routines. An illustration of an inclusive organisational model is presented.
