

Corporate Social Responsibility, Gender Equality and the reconciliation of work and family A Report on the Experience of the Equality is Quality Award

It reports the attribution process of the "Equality is quality" award over the five years prior to the respective publication. This award has worked as a recognition for private companies and organisations implementing good practices in work-family life balance and gender equality. By providing a detailed account of the process and illustrating real cases of good practices, this resource can be used as a guiding tool for many other organisations from both the public and private sectors willing to adopt good practices. The issue of work-life balance and gender equality is an integral part of a corporate social responsibility approach.
