

Data collection on intimate partner violence by the police and justice sectors: Latvia

The infographic features the EIGE logo at the top left. The main title is 'Data collection on intimate partner violence by the police and justice sectors' with a subtitle 'Latvia'. Below the title is a photograph of a woman in a white lab coat, possibly a doctor or nurse, looking at a computer screen. In the foreground, there is a small statue of Lady Justice holding scales.

Why do we need administrative data on intimate partner violence?

Many women victims of intimate partner violence in the EU Member States remain unprotected. Perpetrators often go unpunished due to inadequate law enforcement approaches, which do not align with international human rights treaties. A gender-neutral approach to the law, coupled with the unavailability of data and existing stereotypes result in the denial of violence against women and its tolerance or normalisation (1). States must ensure that they carry out the due diligence principle to investigate and punish acts of violence and provide compensation to victims. Improving data collection and providing comprehensive and reliable administrative data is crucial to monitor the police and justice sector's response to violence against women (2). High-quality administrative data in line with the monitoring commitments of Member States to combat violence against women outlined in Directive 2011/36/EU, the Victims' Rights Directive and the Istanbul Convention.

The European Institute for Gender Equality (EIGE) defines intimate partner violence as all acts of physical, sexual, psychological or economic violence that occur between former or current spouses or partners, whether or not the perpetrator shares or has shared the same residence with the victim. It constitutes a form of violence which affects women disproportionately and which is therefore distinctly gendered.

2023 collection of intimate partner violence is in line with the definition of domestic violence of the Istanbul Convention.

Statistics:

- In Latvia, 22% of women have been victims of physical and/or sexual violence by a partner since the age of 15.
- Only 17% of those women contacted the police.

© EIGE 2023. All rights reserved. EIGE is a European Union institution. EIGE is not responsible for the content of external links. EIGE is not liable for any damage or loss of data arising from the use of this infographic.

Many women victims of intimate partner violence in the EU Member States remain unprotected. Perpetrators often go unpunished due to inadequate law enforcement approaches, which do not align with international human rights treaties. A gender-neutral approach to the law, coupled with the unavailability of data and existing stereotypes result in the denial of violence against women and its tolerance or normalisation.

States must ensure that they carry out the due diligence principle to investigate and punish acts of violence and provide compensation to victims. Improving data collection and providing comprehensive and reliable administrative data is crucial to monitor the police and justice sectors' response to violence against women.

Read more

Data collection on intimate partner violence by the police and justice sectors - all EU countries

Indicators on intimate partner violence and rape for the police and justice sectors

EIGE's work on data collection on violence against women

Downloads

Data collection on intimate partner violence by the police and justice sectors: Latvia

EN (PDF, 646.18 KB)

Metadata

COUNTRY: Latvia

AREAS: Data collection on violence against women, Gender-based violence

AUTHOR: EIGE

ISBN: 978-92-9470-323-1

DOI: 10.2839/69311