

Grey literature on gender equality and youth

Grey literature on gender equality and youth

What is grey literature? It is literature produced by non-commercial publishers, such as public institutions, universities, research institutes and civil society. It contains a lot of useful content, but is often hard to find as it is scattered across different locations. EIGE has collected grey literature on gender equality and you can access our collection through a simple search interface. EIGE's collection of grey literature is available in several EU languages and documents come from all EU Member States.

The relevance of gender in youth policies

Many phenomena experienced by young people are deeply affected by gender. In certain areas it is young women who are disadvantaged, while in others it is young men. Young women are for example more likely to be affected by low pay and precarious employment, while young men more frequently have trouble in the educational field.

Grey literature in EIGE's library

In EIGE's library you will find resources focusing on several aspects related to youth policy. The collection includes:

- policy direction documents giving recommendations;
- research studies providing empirical evidence, as well as examples of policy measures and good practices throughout Europe;
- Policies that refer to policy initiatives and specific measures;

Youth policy must be designed in coordination with employment, education and health policies in order to be effective.

In our library you will find several resources outlining the ways in which international and EU bodies are trying to address the challenges faced by the youth of today.

You will also find resources that specifically focus on how to mainstream gender into policy processes with particular reference to policy initiatives and specific measures.

Reading list

An EU Strategy for Youth – Investing and Empowering
Multi-policy and gender-sensitive youth work in Austria
→ Evidence from a capability-oriented perspective

Many phenomena experienced by young people are deeply affected by gender. In certain areas it is young women who are disadvantaged, while in others it is young men. Young women are for example more likely to be affected by low pay and precarious employment, while young men more frequently have trouble in the educational field.

Downloads

Grey literature on gender equality and youth

EN (PDF, 388.62 KB)

Metadata

AREAS: Resource & Documentation Centre

AUTHOR: EIGE

PUBLISHER: EIGE

ISBN: 978-92-9482-230-7

DOI: 10.2839/936016

KEYWORDS: young people, youth