

Health professionals have a role to play in combating violence against women

It is urgent to finally recognize violence against women as a major public health problem in our society and help by appropriate training physicians and other professionals to take charge. Violence against women is not a private matter. We must break the taboo. These crimes and crimes should be punished by law, including too many women are still victims, which have consequences for many health problems, even death. In our country, every other day, a woman dies at the hands of a spouse or former spouse. This situation can not be tolerated.

Relation: report by Professor Henrion (2001)

Weblinks

Website

Source

Plan Violence (2005)

Metadata

TYPE: Publication

CREATOR/AUTHOR: Dr Cécile Morvant, Dr Gilles Lazimi, Dr Emmanuelle Piet,

CONTRIBUTOR: Dr Gérard Lopez and Dr Laure Vanwassenhove

PUBLISHER: Secrétariat d'Etat aux Droits des Femmes

RIGHTS: Registered

LANGUAGE: French

COVERAGE: France

TYPES OF GBV: Intimate Partner Violence

FORMAT: PDF file

KEYWORDS: intimate partner violence/domestic violence