

HGR no. 774/2000 for the organisation and functioning of the legal medicine institutions, Article 37 (Romania)

Targeted professionals: Health professionals

Professional Secrecy Provisions Conditions for disclosing information

The right to confidentiality is limited under the conditions of suspicion from the part of the legal doctor of medical data indicating the possible occurrence of a type of crime that qualifies for automatic prosecution, when the examination is done at the request of interested parties (Article 37). The source provides examples of such possible occurrences, among which, abuse of a minor.

Right or duty to report

Duty to report for the professional. The author mentions child abuse among the conditions that qualify for the disclosure.

Source

Morar, Silviu, Confidentialitatea in practica medico-legala (*Confidentiality in medical legal practice) Romanian Journal of Bioethics, vol. 4, no. 2, 2006,

<http://www.bioetica.ro/bioetica/ie2/info.jsp?item=10028&node=1535>

Additional information

Date of entering into force

2000

Metadata

TYPE: Policy / Legislation

LANGUAGE: Romanian

TYPES OF GBV: Female Genital Mutilation

KEYWORDS: female genital mutilation, gender-based violence, professional secrecy provisions