

---

Slovenian Civil procedure act, Article 411 (1999)

A civil protection order can be requested based on Article 411 in order to secure certain interests of the child. However, this possibility is only possible when the perpetrators are the child's parents.

---

Source

Carol Hagemann-White, Liz Kelly, Renee Romkens, Feasibility study to assess the possibilities, opportunities and needs to standardize national legislation on violence against women, violence against children and sexual orientation violence, European Commission, 2010 [National Report Slovenia - Neža Kogovšek]; direct source: Uradni list RS (Official Gazette) No. 26/1999, 15. April 1999; Civil Procedure Act: <http://www.uradni-list.si/1/objava.jsp?urlid=199926&stevilka=1210>

---

Additional information

Information collecting point

Ministry of Justice (www.mp.gov.si/si/storitve/uporabni\_seznami/statistika/) and Courts (www.sodisce.si/znanje/sodna\_praksa/)

---

Metadata

TYPE: Policy / Legislation

LANGUAGE: Slovenian

TYPES OF GBV: Female Genital Mutilation

KEYWORDS: female genital mutilation, gender-based violence, legislation, child protection, child protection provisions