

Writing classes for homeless women

The initiative is taken in the framework of the activities of a "street newspaper" involving homeless men and women in writing articles and selling the magazine. Writing classes were held in January 2013 with a group of homeless women and the results were included in the publication of the magazine in the March 2013 issue.

Weblinks

Website

Funding body

National Government Funding

Aims and objectives

- To empower and increase access to expression for homeless women

Results and impact

Not yet evaluated

Creator/owner/responsible institution

Apropos

Stakeholder, Firstname: Michaela

Stakeholder, Family name: Grundler

Additional information

Subtype: Training courses and toolkits on gender issues

Duration: One day

Periodicity: One off initiative

Nr of beneficiaries: 10

Nuts code: AT32

Evaluation: N/A

Metadata

ONGOING: No

TYPE: Training tool

COVERAGE: Regional

TARGET GROUP: General population

KEYWORDS: newspapers, publishing, access to expression, dissemination of information, awareness-raising initiatives, images of women