Aims and objectives

To provide easier access to female professionals through a database of female experts; to promote women's participation in the public sphere

Results and impact

The tool has been found to be a start to a discussion around and about the theme. It makes the journalists realise that there is a problem of equity and balance in handling news. The project was welcomed by the editors, whilst some journalists had some problems because they perceived a potential limitation to their liberty of choosing their interview-partners. After 6 months, around 130 female experts from all fields have registered
