

The Role of Fathers in Balancing Professional and Family-Private Life

The survey took place within the context of the Programme "Equal Partners: A re-examination of the role of fathers in work and private life" that took place within the 5th Community Action Programme for Gender Equality of the EC. The objective of the survey was to identify the various factors that determine fatherhood in the Greek family and the extent of participation of men in family obligations and their commitment to caring for their children. The survey sample was 200 fathers who were asked to complete a questionnaire and then were interviewed.
