

Reproducing Gender: Politics, Publics, and Everyday Life after Socialism

The book presents detailed evidence about women's and men's new circumstances in eight of the former communist countries, exploring the intersection of politics and the life cycle, the differential effects of economic restructuring, and women's public and political participation. Individual contributions on the former German Democratic Republic, Poland, the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Hungary, Serbia, Romania, and Bulgaria provide rich empirical data and interpretive insights on post socialist transformation analyzed from a gendered perspective. Drawing on multiple methods and disciplines, these original papers advance scholarship in several fields, including anthropology, sociology, women's studies, law, comparative political science, and regional studies, the analyses make clear that practices of gender, and ideas about the differences between men and women, have been crucial in shaping the broad social and mediatic changes that have followed the collapse of communism.

Key information on EU or National policies/legislation on women's' representation on the Media:

Gender equality

Key information on trends and challenges on women and the media:

Gender, society, and the media in post communist nations

Key stakeholders mentioned:

media professionals, civil society

Bibliographic Citation:

Book on gender equality in society and the media in Eastern Europe

Format: 433 p.; 17x24 cm

Metadata

TYPE: Publication

CREATOR/AUTHOR: Gal, Susan; Kilgman, Gail

PUBLISHER: Princeton University Press

IDENTIFIER: ISBN: 0691048681

RIGHTS: Property rights of the authors and the publisher

ADDITIONAL COUNTRIES: European Union

LANGUAGE: English

COVERAGE: Romania; European Union

KEYWORDS: participation of women