Professional Measures and Principles of Journalistic Ethics in Programmes of RTV Slovenia

Professional Measures and Principles of Journalistic Ethics in Programmes of RTV Slovenia is a list of peer-set rules that emphasize their “open” nature, meaning they are an evolving practice of peer-pressure to strive for professional conduct and ethics in journalism and media work.

Key information on trends and challenges on women and the media:

Discussion of a detailed and nuanced list of various instructions and regulations regarding how to gather information, create media content and treat the public. Among others, the document warns against the use of gender stereotypes. The document contains a special section titled “Conduct towards certain special groups of viewers or listeners”, where it states that “the RTV programmers should not declare ... women to be housewives”. A separate point also deals with “attitude towards women” in the public broadcaster.

Key stakeholders mentioned:

Television and Radio Slovenia

Weblinks

Website

Metadata
TYPE: Guidelines

CREATOR/AUTHOR: Svet Radiotelevizije Slovenija (Council of Radio Television Slovenia)

CONTRIBUTOR: Svet Radiotelevizije Slovenija (Council of Radio Television Slovenia)

LANGUAGE: Slovenian

COVERAGE: Slovenia

KEYWORDS: gender-sensitive media, public media