

Collection of good practices on non-monetary measures in the area of women and poverty

The study will analyse and collect approaches, tools and practices in Member States related to non-monetary measures adopted and implemented to combat and reduce poverty and social exclusion, focusing on working-poor and migrant women, with a specific concern on Roma women. Concern will be addressed towards tools and approaches to monitor trends and performance of policies and programmes implemented to combat poverty as well as to identify and understand the multiple dimensions of poverty and of gender discrimination. Under the contract, the work shall start from analysing and mapping national approaches to collection of gender-sensitive data, as a basis for the implementation of specific initiatives, adopted to eradicate and combat poverty.
