

Gender Equality Index 2019: Austria

With 65.3 out of 100 points, Austria ranks 13th in the EU on the Gender Equality Index. Its score is 2.1 points lower than the EU's score. Between 2005 and 2017, Austria's score increased by 5.8 points (+ 2 points since 2015). The country's ranking has remained the same since 2005.

Austria's scores are higher than the EU's scores in all domains, except for the domains of power and time, where Austria's scores are the lowest (39.9 and 61.2 points), compared to other domains. Austria's highest scores are in the domains of health (91.7 points) and money (86.4 points).

Scores improved most in the domains of power (+ 10.4 points) and knowledge (+ 5.2 points). Progress stalled in the domain of health (+ 0.3 points) and is moderate in the domains of time and work (+ 1 and + 2.9 points).

Between 2005 and 2017, Austria's Index score remained lower than the EU's score. Nevertheless, Austria has moved towards gender equality at a quicker rate, and the gap between Austria and the EU has reduced over time.

Each year we issue EU Member States and the EU as a whole to see how far they are from reaching gender equality. The Index uses a scale of 1 to 100, where 1 is for total inequality and 100 is for total equality. The scores are based on the gaps between women and men and levels of achievement in six core-domains: work, money, knowledge, time, power and health. Two additional domains are integrated into the Index, but do not have an impact on the final total score: education and political representation. Higher life expectancy, gender inequalities related to violence with women, availability of social welfare and family support, the absence of violence against women measures and analysis women's experiences of violence.

In addition to providing a diagnostic tool, the Index scores, the Gender Equality Index 2019 includes a thematic focus on equality by balance.
